About Dr Manmohan Singh Bengaluru City University:

Dr Manmohan Singh Bengaluru City University (BCU), established in 2017, is a State Public Affiliating University with a legacy rooted in the historic 160-year-old Central College. The University is committed to progressive, inclusive, and skill-driven higher education, fostering inquiry, innovation, and community engagement. With a vision to enable social transformation through knowledge, Dr .MMSBCU promotes interdisciplinary collaboration among academia, industry, and community stakeholders. The University focuses on nurturing ethical, socially conscious and globally competent graduates who contribute to national development and societal well-being.

About the Department of Studies and Research Social Work

Established in 2018, the Department of Studies and Research in Social Work at Dr. Manmohan Singh, Bengaluru City University is committed to equity, social justice, human rights, and inclusive development. The department prepares socially responsible professionals to address contemporary social challenges at local, national, and global levels. Through a blend of academic learning and field-based practice, the department emphasizes research, internships, and community engagement. Guided by the pillars of Teaching, Practice, Research, and Extension, it fosters critical thinking, leadership, and professional competence. Graduates contribute effectively across development, health, education, social welfare, industry, and policy sectors, promoting sustainable and inclusive social change.

About The Association of People with Disability (APD)

The Association of People with Disability (APD), founded in 1959, is a national leader in disability inclusion, rights, and rehabilitation. APD works across urban and rural India, empowering children and adults with diverse disabilities through education, skilling, livelihoods, rehabilitation, advocacy, and community-based programs. Rooted in human rights and social justice, APD partners with government, academia, corporations, and communities to advance accessibility, inclusion, and independent living. Over six decades, APD has transformed thousands of lives with evidence-based, participatory and scalable models of inclusion., leadership and inclusive solutions across sectors.

About Institute of Disability Rehabilitation and Research (IDRR)

The Institute of Disability, Rehabilitation and Research (IDRR) is the academic, research, and capacity-building wing of APD. IDRR strengthens the disability ecosystem by integrating field expertise with applied research, training, policy engagement, and innovative models of inclusive development. The institute focuses on disability studies, inclusive education, rehabilitation sciences, and rights-based practices. IDRR facilitates knowledge exchange among practitioners, academicians, policymakers, and persons with disabilities, fostering innovation, leadership and inclusive solutions across sectors.

Genesis of the Conference

Disability inclusion remains a key concern in global development, human rights, and social justice. Despite policy progress, persons with disabilities continue to face systemic barriers in education, employment, healthcare, governance, and community life, often intensified by intersecting factors such as gender, socio-economic status, and geography. This underscores the need for inclusive, equitable, and sustainable interventions.

The conference Inclusive Disability Interventions: Diversity, Equity, Accessibility & Sustainability recognizes disability as a complex social and structural issue requiring interdisciplinary approaches from Social Work and allied disciplines. Social Work plays a central role by linking individual, community, and policy-level responses through rights-based, empowering, and practice-oriented interventions.

Emphasizing diversity, equity, accessibility, and sustainability, the conference provides a platform for scholars, practitioners, policymakers, civil society, and persons with disabilities to collaborate, share knowledge, and advance inclusive solutions for building equitable and accessible societies.
